

Newsletter: November 2007

You have previously registered on the www.eco-switch.com.au website with the view to purchasing the eco-switch™.

My name is Rod Sheppard and as the inventor and patent holder of the eco-switch™ I would like give you a progress update.

We at Carbon Reduction Industries Pty Ltd (product developers of the eco-switch™) have been keenly listening to your product feedback and have incorporated the best of your ideas into the final product design.

This revised design allows you to place your furniture back even closer to the wall than before. It is also now easier to access the female part of the eco-switch™ should you wish to change which appliances you choose to plug in.

You can see this latest version at www.eco-switch.com.au.

As a consequence, all this development work has lengthened the time to get the product to you. However, we now expect the eco-switch™ to be available for purchase early next year.

Thanks everyone for your patience. We will keep you updated via email.

Meanwhile we have a number of exciting other energy-saving products in development under the eco-switch™ brand with the usual added benefits of convenience and safety.

Tell your friends.

Be the first to do your bit.

Consider giving an eco-switch™ or two away as rewards to staff.

And keep your great ideas coming.

Regards,

Rod Sheppard
